

Mr. Coolidge Gives a State Dinner to President Harding

Company of Thirty-four Includes Several Residents of Massachusetts.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

The first of the state functions in honor of the President and Mrs. Harding was given to-night, with the Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge as hosts.

When the Christmas season is over each of the Cabinet officers in order of departmental seniority will entertain for the President.

Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge's dinner was given in the Presidential suite in the Willard, the apartment which Mr. and Mrs. Harding occupied for the few days immediately preceding inauguration. Thirty-four guests were at the table, which was laid in a hollow square, with a fountain splashing merrily in the center. The decorations were suggestive of the season.

In accordance with the custom in Washington, the White House administration most of the guests were recruited from out of town, Massachusetts being particularly well represented.

The company included Speaker of the House and Mrs. Gillette, Senator Lodge, Senator Curtis, Senator Hitchcock, Gov. and Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. Eugene Hale, the Rev. J. Noble Pierce and Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Charles S. Wheeler, Mrs. Thomas P. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Skinner of New York, Dr. and Mrs. William M. Irvine of Worcester, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William W. White of Holyoke, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Bullock of Worcester, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Loring Young of Weston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, Jr., of Boston, and Mrs. William M. Butler of Boston.

Another large dinner party to-night was given by the British Ambassador and Lady Goddard, who entertained at the Embassy for the Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour and other members of the British cabinet.

Dinner also was given by Major and Mrs. Parker West, Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. Harry Taylor and the Mayflower Society.

14 Pianists Earn $15,000 in Concert for Moszkowski

Play at Same Time at Gala Testimonial for Polish Composer.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Fourteen world famous pianists appeared last night at Carnegie Hall in a gala testimonial concert given for the benefit of the Polish pianist and composer, Moritz Moszkowski, who is ill in Paris and without funds. The net profits of the concert amounted to $8,000.

This sum, together with souvenir programs autographed by all the pianists taking part, with one going to John McCormick, the highest bidder, for $1,000, and autographed etchings of Moszkowski, which were auctioned off during the intermission by Mrs. Alma Gluck and Walter Damrosch, added up to $15,000.

The artists who took part were Backus, Bauer, Casella, Friedman, Gabriellwitzsch, Grainger, Hutcheson, Lambert, Lhevinne, Ney, Ornstein, Schelling, Schnitzer and Stojowski.

Mr. Damrosch read letters of regret from M. G. G. Bloomfield-Zelander and Paderewski, all of which he prefaced by an appropriate speech by himself.

Brilliant Audience.

The event, which was one of the most remarkable of its kind on record, had been arranged by a committee of women with Mrs. Ernest Schelling as the treasurer. It was an event saving not only of novel and genuine excitement, but also of genuine excitement.

A brilliant audience packed the auditorium. On the stage stood fourteen grand pianos. Fortunately, no more than five different makes were required.

The pianists numbered all the fourteen pianists appeared and played at once, and hence a task had been set the tuners to bring all the pianos into the most perfect accord possible.

The matter of the order of appearance, at the program and position on the stage of the distinguished artists, the committee—no running the risk of any artistic heartburnings—had settled the drawing of slips from a hat.

Schumann's "Carneval," the second number in the list, was without doubt the piece de resistance. All the artists being familiar with the work, so each of the twenty-two pieces, save the first and final ones, was played by a different pianist in rotation, the executive having drawn on a slip of paper his title, and several pianists played the first and final ones.

FIVE DEBUTANTES INTRODUCED AT DANCES AND DINNER PARTIES

Entertainments for Misses Adele Hammond, Diana Dalziel and Ann-Elizabeth Kaufman.

There were more festivities for debutantes last night with dinners and dances for these young aspirants for fashionable favors. Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Hammond of 9 East Ninety-first street gave a small dance for their debutante daughter, Miss Adele Sloane Hammond, in advance of which there were several dinner parties. Miss Hammond was formally introduced to society last month at an afternoon reception given by her parents.

The dinners in advance of the dance were given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry White, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Robbins and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Huntington Hooker, at their respective homes. Miss Hammond is one of the two debutante granddaughters of Mrs. Henry White for whom she will give a dance at 2 West Fifty-second street on the night of January 29.

There was a large assembly last night in the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton, where Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Dalziel and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gravaert Kaufman together gave a ball for their daughter, Miss Adele Hammond, and Miss Ann-Elizabeth Kaufman. There were present not only many of the debutantes of this season and last but also married friends of the hosts and hostesses. The decorations were suggestive of the Christmas season.

In advance of the dance Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman gave a dinner in their apartment at 270 Park avenue for their daughter and some of her young friends. Among them were Misses Diana Dalziel, Geraldine Thompson, Jeanne Reyna, Nancy Yule, Catherine W. Dewa, Emily Billings, Sheila Byrd, Dorothy Brown, Renee Carhart, Millicent Rogers, Carle Prentice, Annette Tilford, Muriel Vandenberg, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman will give a tea and dance this afternoon at the Ambassador for their debutante niece, Miss Rosalie Albee Barclay.

A luncheon for Miss Millicent Barnard, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Barnard, will be given to-day at the Ritz-Carlton by her aunt, Miss Louise A. Barnard.

A reception will be given this afternoon by Mrs. Henry Soffe Thompson of 183 West Fifty-eighth street for her daughter, Miss Dorothy and Adele Thompson.

Mrs. William Truesdell Hyde will give a luncheon to-day at the Ambassador for her daughter, Miss Beatrice I. Hyde, and Miss Edith Clark McCullough.

Mrs. Hall Park McCullough of 116 East Thirty-ninth street will give a reception this afternoon for her daughter, Miss Edith Clark McCullough.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Stevens, Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, Jr., and Mrs. James R. Deering, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Reynal, Mrs. Cornelius H. Smith.

Among the other members of the committee, besides Mr. and Mrs. George Barton French, Mrs. John A. Hartwell and Mrs. Henry M. Alexander.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR BOWLING GREEN ORPHANAGE FARE FOR WOMEN AT LUNCHEON Club Heads Hear Appeal of Near East Relief.

More than 2,000 children living in the shadows of the skyscrapers in the vicinity of Bowling Green, will have a glorious two day Christmas party to-day and Friday at the headquarters of the Bowling Green Neighborhood Association at 45 West street. There will be a Christmas tree, presents for all, candy and entertainments.

The association asked the downtown business men, the only neighbors of this isolated community, to help make these children and their fathers and mothers forget for a day or two at least the hardships they have suffered this winter through lack of employment. Money may be sent to Chellis A. Austin, treasurer, at 115 Broadway. Clothing and toys should be sent to the association's office in West street.

Rushton Peabody's Wife Obtains a Divorce in Reno

Married Here on New Year's Day 1920—She Was Widow of Chester P. Siems.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

RENO, Nev., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Vernon Marguerite Peabody was granted a divorce here to-day from Mr. Rushton Peabody of 780 Madison avenue, New York city.

Mrs. Peabody came here about a year ago with two daughters by her first husband, the late Chester P. Siems of St. Paul, Minn., who died in New York on October 23, 1919.

That her husband had an unyielding temper and treated her cruelly were among the allegations in the complaint of Mrs. Peabody, who is 40 years of age, that she was married to Mr. Peabody two years ago, after knowing him but six weeks, and that she soon found out she could not live with him.

She alleged that her husband manifested a violent dislike for her three children by her first marriage, and also for her mother. They went to live in his New York apartment and she alleged that her husband objected to the presence of any of her former husband's photographs in the rooms. Once, she asserted, he broke a photograph of one of his own children, justifying it by the fact that it was one of his wife's offspring.

Mrs. Peabody also charged that her husband said he would kill her and himself if she ever left him. In spite of this she went to
